

The Palace Bridge goes up at night in St. Petersburg, the setting of numerous masterpieces of Russian literature.

Don't miss out on Slavic Literatures & Cultures!

The Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures will host an open lunch for all undergrads who are interested in concentrating in Slavic, taking any courses in our department, or want to try some delicious new foods. This is a great chance to learn more about opportunities of interest, as well as to get to know other students and instructors while enjoying each other's company over a casual meal.
